Jan. 29--NEWARK -- Junior Achievement of New Jersey recently held its annual Laureate Legacy Breakfast for young people at Public Service Electric and Gas Co. here.

The gathering gave the youths an opportunity to engage in dialogue with business executives with the intent to inspire them to achieve their potential in life.

Along with JANJ's State Board Chairman Dino E. Robusto, president of commercial and specialty lines at the Chubb Group of Insurance Cos., were past and present New Jersey Business Hall of Fame honorees and Junior Achievement board members from various companies who sat with groups of the students from Newark, Bloomfield and Jersey City.

The conversations were followed by panel discussions with the Class of 2014 New Jersey Business Hall of Fame Laureates led by the Hall of Fame event chairwoman Michelle Lee, northeast regional president for community banking at Wells Fargo.

Topics included choosing one's career path, creating goals, the importance of networking, mentorship and crafting a personal brand and mission.

The group will come together again at the New Jersey Business Hall of Fame gala on April 3 in Newark for the induction of the 2014 laureates.
